Who Should Attend

This program is designed for all lawyers who want to improve their witness preparation skills.

About the Program

The next time you think that preparing witnesses is intuitive, or the next time you think that all a fact witness has to do is to tell their story, walk up to some strangers and ask them to spell their names – ask them to describe something that happened months ago! Testimony is far removed from a conversation. It is a precise and unnatural process that requires meticulous preparation – a skill that can be taught, but not one that you've encountered in a formal setting. Even if you've represented hundreds of witnesses, you can improve your abilities and efficiency as an advocate, increase your winning percentage, and drastically reduce the stress of not knowing which way a witness might take you, or which way that witness might be led astray! Invest one day with experienced trial lawyer Dan Small, and discover new tips, tactics, and techniques to help make you a more effective advocate.

Here's what past attendees have said about Dan Small and this program:

- "Perhaps the best speaker I've ever heard."
- "One of the most practical programs I've ever attended – sharp, to the point and immediately useful."
- "So organized. Enjoyed his use of PowerPoint, anecdotes, video clips and the fact that he offered his tips in numbered lists and bullet points."
- "Tremendous. I've been trying cases for 20 years and I learned a lot about witness prep which I will use in my next trial, next month."
- "Well-planned, entertaining, and with a variety of examples."
- "This program is essential for anyone who has to interview or examine witnesses in any legal proceeding."

About the Presenter

Daniel I. Small has built a brilliant career on his ability to prepare witnesses to be compelling advocates for his client. As a federal prosecutor, general counsel, and as a partner at Holland & Knight, Small has used the same process that he will teach to you to introduce the witness to the foreign land of the discovery, hearing, or courtroom and to prepare them to tell the story in a way that connects to jury or judge and produces winning results. A former Lecturer on Law at Harvard and a frequent media commentator, Dan is also author of Preparing Witnesses: A Practical Guide for Lawyers and Their Clients, (3rd Edition, ABA). The breadth of his experience is reflected in the practical advice he offers in this acclaimed CPD program.
