WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This program will benefit all lawyers who need to know how tax debts affect them and their clients, and strategies to avoid and resolve tax debt issues.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Unpaid taxes are among the most stressful and intimidating debts to resolve. These debts can relate to personal income tax, corporate tax, goods and services taxes and payroll taxes, and can result from any number of changes, oversights and errors by the taxpayer. If you or your firm have ever received a notice of unpaid taxes, you'll have some insight into the unique and financially devastating powers of the CRA to collect these debts. Still, there are solutions. This program is designed to educate lawyers from all practice areas about types of tax debts and how they arise, the collection powers of the CRA, and legal solutions to personal and corporate tax debts owing to the CRA. Repayment of CERB overpayments and CEBA loans will also be covered. The program will appeal to practitioners who want to be able to more fully advise individuals and businesses about the risks of tax liabilities and other CRA-related debts, as well as lawyers who want to avoid or better manage personal tax debts or tax debts that arise in their practice. If you can't answer these questions, you should take this course:

- Is a business owner personally responsible for HST and payroll taxes?
- Can the CRA put a lien on a taxpayer's home?
- Can the CRA hold a family member liable for a taxpayer's debt?
- Are tax debts dischargeable in bankruptcy?
- What happens if a taxpayer can't repay CERB overpayments or CEBA loans?

Don't miss this opportunity to learn more about how you and your clients can avoid unexpected tax bills and deal with tax debt.
